

CONTENTS . . . continued

Articles

Breast Cancer Detection and Community Practice: Executive Summary Report of a Workshop Cosponsored By the General Motors Cancer Research Foundation And the American Cancer Society 227

Gerald R. Dodd, MD
Diane J. Fink, MD
Gerald P. Murphy, MD

To further encourage the incorporation of breast cancer screening techniques into community practice, the General Motors Cancer Research Foundation and the American Cancer Society cosponsored a special workshop on early breast cancer detection. The authors review the findings and recommendations.

Departments

Editorial: 197
Quality Assurance in the Care of the Cancer Patient

Arthur I. Holleb, MD

In the last year, the American Cancer Society has added to its main themes of cancer research, prevention, education, and service and rehabilitation the pursuit of the assurance of quality care for all cancer patients.

American Cancer Society Position Statement: 226
Pesticides

Classics in Oncology: 230

Introduction: "Primary Peptic Ulcerations of the Jejunum Associated with Islet Cell Tumors of the Pancreas" by Zollinger and Ellison

Larry C. Carey, MD

Tribute is paid to the classic article by Zollinger and Ellison.

Classics in Oncology: 231

Primary Peptic Ulcerations of the Jejunum Associated With Islet Cell Tumors of the Pancreas

Robert M. Zollinger, MD
Edwin H. Ellison, MD

This classic article, written in 1955, suggested a clinical entity of hypersecretion, hyperacidity, and atypical peptic ulceration that is associated with non-insulin-producing islet cell tumors of the pancreas.

Unproven Methods of Cancer Management: 248
Macrobiotic Diets for the Treatment of Cancer

Letters 252